Mark Bertolini:

Hi. I'm Mark Bertolini, Chairman, CEO and President of Aetna.

We're building a company for the future of health care.

We believe the health information technologies we are developing will help nations, physicians and consumers use the health care system in smarter and simpler ways.

In return our customers get more choice, better value, and access to higher quality care.

We are working to make quality health care more affordable, accessible, and easy to use for people around the globe.

That's what we're all about.

Join me and Aetna's 34,000 employees as we help make the world a healthier place.
